The Star Spangled Banner.

O, say, can you see, by the dawn's early light,
What so proudly we hailed at the twilight's last gleaming,
Whose broad stripes and bright stars, through the perilous fight,
O'er the ramparts we watched were so gallantly streaming!
And the rocket's red glare,
The bombs bursting in air,
Gave proof, through the night, that our flag was still there!
O! say, does that Star-spangled Banner yet wave,
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave?

On the shore, dimly seen through the mists of the deep,
Where the foe's haughty host in dread silence reposes,
What is that which the breeze, o'er the towering steep,
As it fitfully blows, half conceals, half discloses;
Now it catches the gleam
Of the morning's first beam:
In full glory reflected, now shines in the stream—
'Tis the Star-spangled Banner! O, long may it wave,
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave!

And where is that band, who so vauntingly swore
That the havoc of war and the battle's confusion,
A home and a country shall leave us no more—
Their blood has wash'd out their foul footsteps' pollution!
No refuge could save
The h reling and slave
From the terror of flight or the gloom of the grave!
And the Star-spangled Banner in triumph doth wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave.

O! thus be it ever, when freemen shall stand
Between their loved home and the war's desolation!
Bless'd with victory and peace, may the Heaven-rescued land
Praise the Power that hath made and preserved us a nation!
Then conquer we must,
When our cause it is just,
And this be our motto, "In God is our trust!"
And the star-spangled Banner in triumph shall wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave.

TEMPERANCE.

WILL MY CHILD BE A DRUNKARD?

This is a solemn question to arise in the mind of a parent. But it is one that the circumstances and habits of the day must often suggest to the mind of every solicitous parent. And it is a question which, though we would give a negative answer to, yet it is a doubtful decision. Who can tell where the tyrant alcohol will find his victim? He binds with just as galling a chain him who was the bright-eyed boy as him who was the stupid blockhead. Well may the parent ask, with a stifled breath and agonized sensibilities, how shall I shield my child from the ruin of this destroyer? what rampart can I throw about it that will protect it from this merciless foe? The following reflections upon this topic are from the New World—and they answer the question as definitely as it can be done. The temperance cause is one that ought to be doubly dear to every parent—for in its success or failure depends the welfare of the cherished child: and yet how careless of this great moral insurance cause, are most parents. But we give the extract; it is worth reading and reflecting upon:

"One of the greatest consolations afforded to my mind by the success of the temperance cause, is the reflection that my child will not be a drunkard."

"To this remark, made by a distinguished lady, now no more, the heart of every parent assents. That the progress of the temperance cause will be so great at the period when the child, which is now an infant, shall appear upon the great theatre of life, as to secure that child from the miseries and woes of intemperance, must certainly carry consolation to the mind of every parent who is deeply solicitous for the future welfare of his children. If any father or mother could lift the veil of fututrity, and see that son, now so loved, perhaps idolized, a bloated and polluted creature reeling under the influence of intoxicating poisons, the remainder of life would be wretched. To such a parent this world would be a vale of tears; and the silence and the solitude of the tomb would be welcomed as the place where the wicked would cease from troubling, and where the weary might be at rest.

"The temperance reform does indeed lift the veil of future years, and discover to the parents of the present generation their children, and their children's children, freed from all the woes and curses of intemperance, the smile of gratitude upon their countenances, and the language of benediction upon their lips. In that day no poor outcast shall stagger along our streets; no drunkard's broken hearted wife shall mourn in solitude and want a husband lost; no drunkard's child shall cry for food, or blush for deep degredation of a drunken father; the prolific parent of disease, and poverty, and crime, and premature death, shall be driven from the abodes of men, and this earth, which has so long been a field of blood, shall assume the peace and beauty of Eden. 'My child will not be a drunkard!' Cheering thought! What an animating prospect does it open to the mind. Alms houses and jails; and penitentiaries and state prisons will then only stand as monuments of the vices of an age gone by; and the evils consequent upon the use of intoxicating poisons, shall exist only upon the historic page as so many records of the degeneracy, of the errors of mankind.—MY CHILD WILL NEVER BE A DRUNKARD!—Where is the parent, his soul animated with this reflection, who will not resolve to enter upon a more vigorous effort, and to make a more determined struggle against the common foe? What parent is there who will not give this great reform the full benefit of his example, his efforts and his prayers?—Generations unborn are to reap the advantages of present effort. And how it will smooth the pillow of death, and cheer the pathway to the grave, if the dying father or the dying mother, in the last moments of mortality, when the eye swims, and the voice falters in death, shall be able to say, 'I have done all I could to advance the temperance enterprise, and I have a strong confidence that MY CHILD WILL NOT BE A DRUNKARD!"

POETICAL.

I CHANGE BUT IN DYING.

I change but in dying—I'll be faithful till death;
I will guard thee with care from pollution's foul breath;
I promise that ne'er in neglect thou shall pine;
I change but in dying,—say, wilt thou be mine?

I come not with riches, good fortune ne'er blest me,
Yet she of less worth—Miss-fortune carest me;
The light of true love o'er thy pathway shall shine;
I change but in dying,—say, wilt thou be mine?

I change but in dying, and no holier vow
From lips mortal e'er came than I breathe to thee now;
It comes from a heart, with love for thee sighing;
Believe me, 'tis true,—I change but in dying.

A BEAUTIFUL THOUGHT.

Some sweet warbler in the London Times utters the following beautiful sentiment. Lay it to heart, friends. It contains gentle but heart-reaching reproof:

There is a voice within me,
And 'tis so sweet a voice,
That its soft lisping wins me,
Till tears start to mine eyes;
Deep from my soul it springeth,
Like hidden melody;
And evermore it singeth
This song of songs to me:
"This world is full of beauty;
As other worlds above;
And if we did our duty,
It might be full of love!"

MISCELLANEOUS.

HAMET AND RASCHID.

TRANSLATED FROM THE FRENCH.

A parching drought had desolated for some time the fields of India, when two shepherds, Hamet and Raschid, met on the limits which seperated their property. They were dying of thirst; they saw their flocks languishing and panting around them, and lifting their eyes to Heaven, besought it promptly to remedy these extreme afflictions. All at once there was in the air a profound silence; the birds ceased to sing, the flocks to bleat and bellow, and the two shepherds perceived, in the valley, a being of human shape, but with a figure more lofty and majestic than ours. It advanced towards them, and as it came nearer, they recognized it. It was the genius who distributed good and evil, holding in one hand the chief of abundance, and in the other the sword of destruction. Seized with terror they would have fled his presence, but the Genius called them with a voice as sweet as the murmur of the Zephyr when it plays at eve in the perfumed groves of Araby.

"Approach," he said to them, "children of dust, flee not from your benefactor. I come to offer you a gift which can become useless and pernicious only by your own imprudence. You ask water, and lo! I am ready to give water; but wish to know from yourselves what will be necessary to satisfy you. Hasten not to answer; reflect on all that has reference to the wants and pleasures of the body; too much is no less to be feared than too little. Take care, in a word, that the torment of thirst does not make you forget the danger of suffocation. Now express yourselves; and do thou, Hamet, speak first."

"Oh, kind genius!" answered Hamet, pardon the agitation which thy august presence excites in me. I ask a little stream which may neither dry in summer, nor overflow in winter."

"Thou shalt have it," answered the Genius, and at the same time struck the earth with his sword, turned for a moment into an instrument of doing good. The two shepherds saw a fountain spring bubbling forth at their feet, and spread its pure waters over Hamet's meadows. The flowers exhaled a new perfume; the trees decked themselves in a greener foliage; and the herds of every kind quenched the thirst which devoured them.

The Genius, turning at length to the other shepherd, makes a sign to him to speak.

"What I ask," said Raschid, "is that it may please thee to make the Ganges with its waters and all its fish, flow through my domains!" Hamet, the too simple Hamet, admired the noble ambition of his friend, and reproached himself with not having been the first to make this magnificent request. But the Genius said to Raschid:

"Moderate thy desires, feeble and imprudent man. Place no value on that which will be useless to thee. Why dost thou want more than thy neighbour? Hast thou more necessities then he? In spite of this wise advice, Raschid persisted in his demand: already did he laugh inwardly at the pitiful figure which Hamet would make before him; before the lord and proprietor of the Ganges.

The Genius then advanced towards the river, leaving the shepherds waiting to see what he would do. While Raschid was regarding with a contemptuous air the countenance of his companion, the bellowing of the floods was suddenly heard, and the impetuous torrent which was seen dashing on, announced that the embankments of the Ganges were broken. This immense deluge ravaged in the twinkling of an eye all Raschid's possessions. It uprooted his trees; it swallowed up, and carried off his flocks.

Alas! it bore away even Raschid himself, and the proprietor of the Ganges was devoured by a crocodile.

[MORAL.—Avoid extremes. Immoderate ambition defeats itself. Seek not for too much. The dog that was crossing a stream with a bone in his mouth, and, seeing his image reflected in the water, grasped with open mouth at the bone which he there beheld—lost both.]

☞ A young man may bow, smile, and say many soft compliments whenever he meets a lady, and yet not possess one particle of genuine love. But he who sincerely loves, endeavors to conceal the weakness of his heart, and in doing so, often appears very awkward. Girls, should remember this, and profit by it.

I love to see the young and beautiful congregate together upon the Sabbath for devotional purposes and join their sweet voices in praise and thank-giving, with the deep and solemn tones of the organ. It is there at times, that I wish with Manfred—

"Oh that I were
The viewless spirit of a lovely sound,
A living voice a breathing harmony,
A bodiless enjoyment—born and dying
With the sweet breath that made me."

And while indulging in such mediations, my thoughts wander beyond the azure crest, among the heavenly spheres, where in imagination, I behold those lovely terrestrial beings who surround me, with golden harps in hand, swelling the grand chorus with celestial melody.

Woman has more strength in her looks than man has in his laws, and more power in her tears than we have in any of our arguments.

☞ Did you ever know a young lad and sprghtly lass who couldn't pick berries into one basket?

You may say there is no necessity to be particular with your wife. But that is just the point at which most married men stumble: they do not pay those little attentions to their wives which women so much love. If men wish always to enjoy the love of their wives, they should, at least, be at some little trouble to please them.

☞ Whatever may be the customs and laws of a country, women always give the tone to morals

"Well, Jeems," said Zed—"I kissed Julia for the first time, last night and I declare it electrified me." "No wonder" said Jeems, "it was a gal-vanic battery."

☞ An independent man (says Pitt,) is a man who cannot be depended on.

☞ An old deacon in Yankee land once told us a story. He was standing one day beside a frog pond—we have his own word for it—and saw a large garter snake make an attack upon an enormous bull frog. The snake seized upon one of the frog's hind legs, and the frog to be on a par with his snakeship, caught him by the tail, and both commenced swallowing one another, and continued this carniverous operation until nothing was left of either of them!

"Dad, who is this Sam Francisco that's getting all the gold out there in Kaliforny? he must be the richest fellow in all them diggins."

"Why, Johny, I rather think he's some related to the Sam Jacinto, who was killed in the Texan war by Gen. Sam Houston."

"These Kaliforny fellers talk about going round the Horn!" soliloquised Shoesticks the other night on the canal bridge. I never went round a horn in my life! venever I finds one in my way I allers drinks it up—I does."

Tattleing.—If those who employ their time in divulging secrets which they have been intrusted with, should be forced to have their tongues cut off, how many of the human race would be tongueless.

Geography.—A certain old lady, being asked where the state of matrimony could be found, replied thus: "I allers thought as how 'twas one of the United States."

☞ A minister at church, approached a little urchin about twelve years old, and, laying his hand upon his shoulder, thus addressed him:

"My son, I believe the devil has hold of you."

"I believe he has too," was the significant reply of the urchin.

The preacher, about that time, vamosed.

☞ Who would suppose that a pretty girl resembled a toper? But it is nevertheless true, for no one will attempt to deny but that both are fond of a glass.

☞ There is not a man beneath the blue canopy of Heaven, however chaste and moral he may be, should his faults be written in plain and indelible characters upon his brow, but what would blush with shame. How quickly too would he draw his hat down over his eyes, to hide these faults from the world.

☞ It is told of Charles Lamb, that one afternoon having taken a seat in a crowded omnibus, a stout gentleman looked in and politely asked:

'All full inside?'

'I don't know how it may be with the other passengers, answered Lamb, but that last piece of oyster pie did the business for me.'

☞ An Exchange paper quotes from Paul's writings: "Owe no man anything," and then adds: "We fear some of our subscribers never read Paul's Epistles."

☞ Nothing is rarer than a solitary lie; for lies breed like Surinam toads; you cannot tell one, but out it comes with a hundred young ones on its back.

☞ Men may lose much by being too communicative in their matters of business. The great laconic philosopher, Shirk, says: "Keep shady; and if you see a quarter on the ground put your foot on it."

PUZZLE.—Neverloanapapertoanyonewhoistoostingytopayforonehimself.

SMART.—Master B., a remarkably smart student at Harvard, is another "gentleman by instinct." A liberal use of starch and cod oil have greatly polished him. He once said to his mother—

"I say, ma'ma, where's Bill?"

"My son, don't let me hear you say bill again. You should say William."

"Well, mother, where's William?"

"In the yard, feeding the ducks."

"O yes, I see him now. But, mother, what makes ducks have such broad, flat williams?"

"Go out with your brother, directly, you—oh!"—and she fainted.

A QUESTION INDEED.—The following question is said to have created a tremendous excitement before the Hardscrabble Debating Institution.

"What is the difference between there being conscience enough in all women, and women enough in all conscience?"

MORE SUBSCRIBERS.—A Western editor announces that his better half had the previous day, presented him with "a twelfth little responsibility," and immediately below makes the following appeal, which we hope was responded to:

"More subscribers wanted at this office!"

☞ A lady, a regular "shopper," who had made an unfortunate clerk tumble over all the stockings in his shop—they were fall goods—objected that none were long enough.

"I want the very longest hose that are made."

"Then, madam, you had better apply at the next engine-house."

"Good mawning, Miss Primp—how's your health since you took the wataw cuaw?"

"Much betaw, I thank you. Maw says I'm stoutaw and freshaw, she shall send me again next summaw."

Some slandering bachelor says it is "much joy," when you first get married: but it is more jawy after a year or so.

An old Jew, being in an out of the way alehouse, treated himself to some ham and eggs, but just as he was about to raise the forbidden morsel to his mouth, a clap of thunder startled him. He dropped the fork, saying,

"Mein Gott! all dis fuss chust because old Moshes is eating a little bit of bacon."

4TH JULY IN KINSTON.

At a meeting of a portion of the citizens of Lenoir County, held at the Court House in Kinston, on Tuesday the 25th of June, Mr. Moses Patterson was called to the Chair, and James W. Morris appointed Secretary. The object of the meeting having been explained, the following gentlemen were appointed to draft resolutions for the action of that body: Dr. J. B. Clark, Walter Dunn, Jr., Anthony Seapark, and W. A. Strong, Esqrs.

After retiring for a short time, the Committee reported through their Chairman, Dr. J. B. Clark, the following preamble and resolutions:

Whereas, we believe it to be the high privilege and duty of every American citizen, to contribute his part towards keeping alive the flame of patriotism, kindled by the spirits of '76. Therefore,

Resolved, That Mr. Joseph R. Woodley be requested to deliver an address on that occasion, and that Mr Anthony Seapark be requested to read the declaration of American Independence.

The two latter gentlemen being present, acknowledged the nomination in neat and appropriate addresses.

Great enthusiasm prevailed, and the spirit which animated the heroes of the Revolution, seemed to be with us.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That the proceedings of this meeting be forwarded to the Telegraph and Patriot, for publication. Also,

Resolved That the thanks of this meeting be tendered to its Officers, for the able, efficient, and impartial manner in which they have discharged their respective duties.

On motion, the meeting then adjourned.

MOSES PATTERSON, Ch'm'n.

JAS. W. MORRIS, Secretary.

From the Raleigh Times.

DAVID S. REID—THE PROVISOIST.

Our readers know, by this time that David S. Reid has been nominated by the late Democratic Convention as their candidate for Governor. True, he published a letter in the Standard of the 12th, two days before the Convention took him up, declaring "I conceive it due alike to myself and to my friends to respectfully decline the nomination, and to request the Convention not to consider my name as one of those from among which the selection is to made;" but that was all gammon and sheer hypocricy. Besides, the letter was dated the 25th May, and had been suppressed for a fortnight; and this publication on the very eve of the nomination, was only intended as an exhibition of mock-modesty, as disgusting as hypocritical—for no doubt one of the members of the Convention which met the day after its publication, had secret missives in his pocket which did away with all the meek bashfulness of the published letter—and the event has demonstrated the paltry trick contemplated from the begining. What miserable vanity must Mr. Reid have, if he thinks any merit can attach to the appearance of having reluctantly consented to become a candidate for an office which he so greatly desired two years ago!

Of course, Mr. Reid is the Democratic candidate. As we neither love nor fear him, we shall take the liberty of examining into his public character fully and freely, and hold him up to the people of North Carolina, in the first place, as one who betrayed the rights of the South when he voted for the Oregon bill with the Wilmot proviso in it; and therefore he is utterly unworthy of the support and confidence of the people of North Carolina.

Mr. Benton (good Democratic authority,) says, in his speech delivered at Lexington, (Mo.) on the 7th July, 1849, that he introduced the amendment into the Oregon bill that passed it with the Wilmot proviso attached; and it was done to assert the unlimited power of Congress over slavery in the Territories. And that, as a naked, absolute, unconditional exercise of the unlimited power of Congress over the whole subject, the Oregon bill with the anti-slavery clause, received the approving signature of President Polk, with the sanction of his whole Cabinet. DAVID S. REID VOTED FOR THE OREGON BILL, with the anti-slavery clause attached, in the House of Representatives, on the 16th January, 1847.—[See Con. Globe, 2d Sess. 29th Cong p. 198.

Mr. Calhoun, (also a good and true Democrat, and first-rate authority,) in his reply to the above speech, says—"In reference to the Oregon bill passed, at the session preceding the last, the North contended for the absolute right to exclude slavery from all the Territories; and announced their determination to do so against the efforts of the South to compromise the question by extending the Missouri Compromise to the Pacific Ocean. The offer was scornfully refused, and the bill passed without any compromise. It was intended, indeed, to be the practical assertion of the naked principle that Congress had the power claimed for it by the Wilmot proviso."

DAVID S. REID, the Locofoco candidate for Governor, voted for the passage of this Oregon bill, which according to Mr. Benton and Mr. Calhoun, asserted and recognised and established for the first time, the naked principle that slavery shall be forever excluded from the Territories! And the Democratic party put up such a man as a candidate for Governor—with that abomination upon his head of the Wilmot Proviso!

Now, Mr. Reid might claim to be excusable for voting for this bill, had he voted for it on the ground that it was a compromise—but even this slender hope is taken away—for Mr. Calhoun says—and we quote the very words of his published address—"That was the first bill containing the Wilmot proviso that ever passed, as has been stated—passed solely to assert the absolute right of doing as it pleases. All others, including the ordinance of 1787, were passed as compromises, which waived the question of power, as has been frequently shown."

Mr. Reid stands, therefore, in this attitude before the people of North Carolina, THAT HE VOTED FOR THE FIRST BILL which established the naked principle of the Wilmot Proviso!

Now, if the Wilmot proviso be unconstitutional, (and the Democrats of North Carolina profess to believe it so,) that bill which contains it must have one feature against which any person who believes it unconstitutional is bound to vote, or else be a forsworn Representative. Who then betrayed the South on this subject?—who betrayed North Carolina? We answer that FORTY SEVEN Southern Democrats voted for the Oregon bill with the Wilmot Proviso in it, while they all denied its constitutionality, and therefore BETRAYED the SOUTH.

And that DAVID S. REID BETRAYED NORTH CAROLINA by voting for what he holds to be unconstitutional for the sake of his party, and ought to have no trust committed to his hands by North Carolina freemen!

What a pretty and consistent figure does David S. Reid, cut now, on this subject! In 1845, for the convenience of a Democratic Administration, he voted to pass a bill with the Wilmot proviso. In 1850, the party to which he belongs declares the Missouri Compromise "DETRACTS" from our constitutional rights; and yet nominates THE MAN who voted for a bill which recognised the naked principle of the unlimited power of Congress over Slavery!

A Provisoist for Governor of North Carolina—doomed from the start!

TO THE WHIGS OF NORTH CAROLINA.

BRETHREN: I am now getting to be an old man. I have been devoted to the Whig cause ever since parties assumed their present names. I have never, as old as I am, failed to attend the polls and vote the Whig ticket—believing that in so doing, I was carrying out correct political principles and serving my country. I have never for a moment suffered personal preferences to induce me to abandon those principles. Governed by such motives and feelings, I was much surprised and mortified, to learn, before the re-nomination of our present worthy and able Governor, CHARLES MANLY, that some of our friends in a remote part of the State, had expressed a determination not to support him, on account of sectional preferences and prejudices. I say this surprised and mortified me, because I did not suppose, that at the present and important and dangerous crisis of our public affairs, any Whig of North Carolina would be unfaithful to the cause and recreant to his principles. I cannot, for a moment believe, that any such determination, if ever made, in a moment of excitement, will be carried out by any Whig in the State, since Governor MANLY has been re-nominated, with so much unanimity, by our recent Convention, composed as it was, of men from all sections of the State, representing the various interests thereof, and distinguished for patriotism and devotion to Whig principles. I have in the course of my life been often called on to vote for Whigs whom personally I did not like, but I have not for a moment allowed that personal dislike, to drive me from my line of duty. Though I disliked the Candidate, I loved the cause, and I would as soon have suffered myself to abandon my country on the field of battle, because I might not fancy my commander, as to vote against my principles, because I could not favor the candidate And would it be less criminal to remain silent and inactive and vote not at all? Would not such a course be weakening our own side and strengthening that of our enemy? For the life of me, I can not imagine any valid objection a Whig can have to CHARLES MANLY. That he is patriotic, honest, and faithful, not even his bitterest political enemies have had the hardihood to deny. That he will stand faithfully by his Country and the rights and honor of his State, we have the most ample assurance. Will not the whole Whig party rally to his support? Will they be guilty of the ingratitude and injustice of sending him forth to incur the expense, the trouble, the risk of health and loss of time to defend their cause, and they themselves remain inactive—giving to him and his gallant and patriotic exertions no countenace and aid? I cannot believe it! There is more magnanimity, more justice, more self-respect, more patriotism in the Whig party of North Carolina.

Let us be faithful then to our cause, true to our honor, and rally around our leader—resolved to sacrifice all our personal considerations to secure the triumph of those principles, the success of which is necessary for the honor and interests of our common country! If the Whigs of North Carolina will stand firm, they may drive back the angry waves of fanaticism and save this glorious Union!!

Brethren—I am sixty eight years old, of feeble health, and little able to do good, but my heart is with you; and on the day of battle—the first of August next—I shall be with the foremost of you in the thicket of the fight! THE UNION, THE WHIG CAUSE AND MANLY, FOREVER.

A FRANKLIN WHIG,
(Who enlisted, not for a year or a day, but for LIFE.)

REID—AND THE WILMOT PROVISO.

David S. Reid, the Locofoco candidate for Governor of North Carolina, while in Congress, in 1845 and 1847, VOTED TWICE for the Oregon bill, with the WILMOT PROVISO in it. The establishment of the truth of this charge ought to kill him politically in this State; and surely entitles him to the execration of every southern man. What insult, therefore, to the people of North Carolina, for the Democratic Convention to nominate such a man for the highest Executive office.

And now for the proof. The first time the Wilmot proviso occurred was on the passage of the bill organizing the Territory of Oregon, on the 3*d of February*, 1845. The bill contained a provision that slavery should never exist in that country, and thereby excluded citizens of the south from going there with their negroes! The bill, with this obnoxious and unjust feature, was passed Yeas 140, Nays 60. Among those who voted for its passage were forty-seven Southern Democrats, (David S. Reid from North Carolina, among them,) while every Southern Whig voted against its passage. Had these Southern Democrats been true to the South, they might have defeated the bill—might have checked Northern aggression upon Southern rights, and thus secured those rights. But no—the object was to make the Democratic party popular at the North, and hence Southern Democrats betrayed their constituents—Now had these forty-seven Southern Democrats voted Nay, the vote would have stood, Yeas 93 Nays 107, and the bill would have been deservedly rejected. Can we hope to obtain our rights, when Southern Democrats thus turn against us?—David S. Reid BETRAYED North Carolina, and surrendered the rights of the South when he gave that vote, and ought to have no office bestowed upon him by North Carolina Freemen. [See House Jour. 2nd Sess. 28th Cong. Feb. 3d 1845, page 321. The Senate rejected the bill.

BUT THAT IS NOT ALL.

Again—David S. Reid voted for this abomination THE SECOND time, in the House of Representatives, the 16th Jan. 1847. [See Cong. Globe, 2d Sess. 29th Cong page 198.] The same bill containing the Wilmot proviso again was put upon its passage, and it passed, Yeas 133, Nays 35. Two-thirds of the Southern Democrats again voted for it, while Southern Whigs again opposed it.

The Senate again rejected this bill: but in 1849 the same bill was offered in Congress, and then passed both Houses, and was approved by President Polk. In the Senate there was a tie between the North and the South—but two Democratic Senators, Thomas H. Benton and Samuel Houston betrayed the South (as it had become usual for Democrats to do,) supported the bill, and it passed which it never could have done but for Democratic votes. Every Southern Whig voted against the bill.

And now North Carolinians are asked to cast their votes for a man for Governor, who has VOTED TWICE for the odious and abominable Wilmot Proviso in the Oregon Bill—and who is forsworn as a Representative, if he did not believe that Congress had the power to prohibit Slavery!

Look at it people of North Corolina! He has twice betrayed the South—and how can you trust him?

PUBLIC SENTIMENT.

The pressure in our columns forbids our copying the numerous and favorable responses every where made by the Whigs of the State, through their presses, to the nomination of Gov. Manly. The canvass will be short; and the Governor is prevented from visiting every portion of the State; but with a true and gallant spirit he goes at once to grapple with his adversary at his own door, and will address the people of Rockingham at Wentworth, on Saturday next.

We feel warranted in looking to the Whigs of the East, with whom the Governor is prevented from mingling, for a fair and honorable support of the Whig nominee. They are true as steel; and can save the State in this canvasss with all ease. No more bitter opponent of Eastern interests could have been selected by the Locofoco Convention; a man who is willing to run and break down the political power left us; and who did more to put in jeopardy the slave institution, by his vote for the Oregon bill, which established the principle of interference by Congress with slavery in Territories than the abolitionists could have effected in a hundred years. He gave up the principle, and by his SURRENDER and that of the other Southern Locofocos, our Northern enemies have been emboldened and strengthened in their purposes of mischief. They plead that vote of those southern party slaves in their favor, and renew their strange and exorbitant demands for control over slavery in all the Territories!

FOR GOVERNOR,

Charles Manly,

OF WAKE COUNTY.

Election on the 1st day of August.

4TH OF JULY.

The birth day of our National Liberty is again upon us! What proud associations spring up at the bare mention of it!! How gladly hail it, millions of every class and creed. The sage who has pondered well and long over the history of its infant struggles, who has watched its annual return with an eye moistened with solicitude, does not more delight in the great glories of this day, than the simple-hearted unlettered plough-boy, who knows only traditionary story of the "agony and sweat" which gave to Liberty a birth-day in our land.

It is the universality of the sentiment of reverence for the day, that will perpetuate the spirit which in 1776 nationalized it. From the studio of the Philosopher—the closet of the Historian—the gay saloon of the Poet, this day, this American day, this American Liberty's birth day, will not more surely be transmitted to posterity, than by the childish sports, the licensed enthusiasm with which every body is welcomed to its holyday. This sentiment is the traditionary history of the beginning and source of American liberty which pervades all classes, and is common to all conditions. It requires neither school nor college to teach it. It is the patrimonial wisdom of the birth-right of American citizenship, and it is a debateable matter whether an American Senator is more conscious of his individual privileges, than the street sweeper, on the annual return of this National festivity. This is as it should be.—For as long as the day which originated our National existence, unites our people in one grand Jubilee and Festivity, common to all and enjoyed by all, with a universal American heart, full of American gratitude for its origin, we can but expect to see the people and their institutions springing from this same source, full of the same spirit of liberty, and ever willing to battle and die in the perpetuation of liberal Republican principles, and in maintenance of governments erected on them. Such is the result of cause and effect, and requires not the aid of either Patriot, Hero, or selfish Demagogue, to keep burning the flame of fair liberty. It is by this means that liberty becomes a household god—accessible to all—understood by all—reverenced by all, and determined to be maintained by all, through every exigency, and at every hazard.

Of such material and producing, surely and firmly, though unobservedly such results, is the Fourth of July. We need not go back to the days of its infancy, when its slumbers were disturbed and its milk turned to bonny-clabber by the Thunder of British Cannon, to impress upon the people of our age the heaven born birth right it gave us, or to transmit to future generations its tutelage of wailing and woe, for the history of liberty, like a goddess of old, sprang full grown from the brain of the revolution, and has been stereotyped for all future time, in the traditionary legend of the 4th of July. Well, then, let the old man of the present day rejoice that his lot has been cast in a land of liberty, of religious liberty, of political liberty, of social liberty, and freest and fullest of all, of personal liberty. Let the old Lady rejoice that her time has been spent in a land where her rights have been recognized, her person respected, and that she will shortly leave her fair Daughters to the care and keeping of the noble and the brave, who would outstorm the tempest of the Torrid Zone, to nourish, cherish, and defend them. Let the young man this day rejoice, that he is a man, a free man, his liberties recognized and proclaimed by Law, by American Law, by his own Law; that every inch of him is Liberty in full perfection, and in its richest growth. Let the Young Lady too rejoice, that come weal come woe, she is mistress of herself, "born in a land of liberty," inheritress of its bounties, and capable under its laws, to choose the path of her destiny, as well as the partner of her earthly pilgrimage. Let it be a day of universal rejoicing, for since the days when the gates of Eden were shut upon our first parents, never have any people had such universal cause of rejoicing. Never were united such a people under such a government. We are almost too happy; our country is almost too free; our people are almost bewildered with too much political prosperity and social happiness.—"In our day and generation," we have snatched the lightnings from the clouds for pleasure and profit. We have leveled the hill and filled up the vale, and sweep across them fleeter than the breath of the wind, and as comfortably as the cradlings of an infant's slumbers. "The raging elements and the mighty deep" we have rendered secure for daily pleasure boat excursions. The ethereal elements too are daily yielding to our assiduous coaxing, and the vista is not indistinct, in which may be seen aerial palaces, peopled with happy companies, traversing the world at their leisure.

Such is the material man at the present day. In his intellectual greatness, where is the space to measure it? The labors of the historian have been commuted to the easy task of the flippant newspaper paragraphist. Sentiment and song are the daily companions of the mill-boy. Melody, with its myriad tongues, springs as if spontaneous from every hamlet in our land, yielding its sweet atoning incense to the God who vouchsafes these blessings to us. We follow the torch of science, lit up under the liberal patronage of our Republican institutions, till the bright skies and the starry firmament are as familiar with us as the elements of our material universe.

These are blessings for which we are indebted to the liberty we enjoy, under free institutions.

The Fourth of July, 1776, first opened to us the rays of this now gorgeous beam. This is its 74th anniversary.—Rejoice, oh, ye nations! Let all rejoice! Immortal 4th day of July!

OUR PLATFORM.

It has ever been the policy of the Whig party to give the people a hearing, upon every subject by which they considered themselves oppressed. The voice of the people has never appealed to the Whig party but it has been respected. "LET THE PEOPLE BE HEARD" has been the watchword of the party ever since we have been initiated into its secrets. As an evidence of this fact, some of the citizens of old North Carolina have expressed a desire to so change the Constitution of the State, that those who vote for members in the House of Commons, shall be entitled to vote for Senator. The first Whig Convention that met after this expression of the wishes of the people, proposed a plan by which the voice of the citizens of the whole State can be heard on the subject. Mr. Reid mounted this hobby for the purpose of making up for his want of ability, or for the purpose of forcing it upon the people by the aid of democracy, whether they wanted it or not, or for the noble purpose of humbugging the people into the opinion that he was the only poor man's friend. The election of Judges, Justices of the Peace, who have to lay county taxes, and other State officers, some contended should be made by the people. Such is the case in almost all the States in the Confederacy. The Whig being literally the PEOPLE'S PARTY, wish the voice of the people on this subject. And if the people wish to express their views in such a manner as cannot be misunderstood, it is their duty to vote with the Whig party at the next election. Because the Whigs have taken the only ground by which this matter can come before the people. Some of the democrats are in favor of it, but they propose no plan, and of course will vote against the plan the Whigs propose. The truth of the whole matter is, the leading democrats are opposed to a vote of the people on this subject. They want it to humbug with.

Those who are in favor of "Free Suffrage" ought to vote with the Whig party in the present contest, that they can be heard at the polls Those who are opposed to it should vote for the Whig Candidates, because they can have a chance to vote against it at the ballot-box. All the true friends of Republicanism should vote with the Whig party in the coming contest, that this question may be settled. And if the Whigs have a majority in the next Legislature, the "Free Suffrage" issue will be managed in such a manner as will give satisfaction to the whole State.—Then throw high the Whig Banner, and let us march together to victory and glory. Stay not in all the plains, but fight under the People's Banner for the People's Man.

THE PEOPLE'S RIGHTS,

THE RALEIGH TIMES.

Without disparagement to any paper in the State, we must say that the "Raleigh Times" heads the list of efficient Whig papers in the State. We wish it had a subscriber at every man's door in N. C. Nine cheers we say for the gallant Times. Give them the blue steel Charley.

"AS YOU WERE."

The leading Locofocos have retreated from the Internal Improvement platform, and fallen back into party line until the election is over, when "Old Roar" will whistle them up to the tune of "true Democratic faith," to wit: Internal Improvements by the State; and next winter we may look out for 'some.' We say to the Whig party "as you were." Let's give them battle as in days of yore. Don't be cheated by their duplicity.

Of all the generous sentiments, that of love of country is most universal.

The following resolution was passed by the Democratic Convention that assembled in NewBerne on the 17th of May, 1849:

"Resolved, That the WILMOT PROVISO which the North believed Gen. Taylor would not veto, and to which he owes his elevation to the Presidency, we believe to be a firebrand, cast into our legislative counsels, to disturb the peace and harmony of the Union, and that we WE WILL SUPPORT NO MAN TO ANY POLITICAL STATION, who does not believe it, not only unwise and inexpedient, but DIRECTLY at variance with the spirit and intention of the CONSTITUTION."

On 321st page, Cong. Doc. 2d Session, 28th Congress, Feb. 3d, 1845. And on 198th page Cong. Doc. 2d session, 29th Congress, Jan. 1847, it will be seen that DAVID S. REID voted for the WILMOT PROVISO. Now we ask, can any member of that Convention vote for Reid? That Convention has said Mr. Reid has acted "unwise and inexpedient, and in DIRECT violation of the spirit and INTENTION of the CONSTITUTION" Will they vote for him, and this declaration staring them in the face?

The Editor of the "Newbern Republican" was a member of that Convention, and he now has, at his mast head, the name of a man who HE SAYS, is a PERJURER. Is not that humiliating? Will he have moral courage enough to take down the name, or will he publish his OWN SHAME TO THE WORLD, every week? Will the Democrats of the 8th Congressional District vote for David S. Reid? We say they will not, and our reason for saying so is, that we believe a majority of them are honorable men, and they have said that they would not. If they do vote for Reid, they are gone in the East, if there is any political honesty in the people. Is Gulick an honorable man? If he is, he will take down the name of David S. Reid from his mast head. There is no dodging in this game, we hold you to the point. We repeat that the Democratic party is PLEDGED in this District NOT to VOTE FOR REID. And we call upon the world to bear witness on the first Thursday in August next whether or not they place any estimate on their VERACITY. We give the Republican one week to take down the name of Reid, and if he does not, we will nail him to the counter for life, in the estimation of all honorable men. We shall do our duty in this matter faithfully and fearlessly, because the South—the home of our childhood—the native hills in which repose the ashes of those whom we loved and lost—are at stake. And we call upon the friends of the South to come out with the Democracy of the 8th District, and discountenance abolitionism, though it be in a nominee.

GEN. R. M. SAUNDERS.

Of all men in every land, we do not believe one can be found who possesses as great gaping for the crumbs that fall from "Uncle Sam's" table, as the man whose name heads this article. He came home from Spain he said, "to spend the balance of his life in the service of his State. That he had given politics to the wind, and his object was to induce North Carolina to go into a grand system of internal improvements.' He further said—"that the Central Rail Road project was a Democratic measure. And he called upon his Democratic friends in the East to stand by it, and not sacrifice the party, if they did, they would sacrifice him, for he would stand by it, and if it fell, he would fall with it. And any party that based itself in opposition to these roads, in this enlightened day, this age of progress, was doomed to defeat. Such a party would go where it ought to go, to the devil." It was whispered that he was canvassing the State for the office of President of the Road. We thought that it was pure patriotism; but now he is trying to skulk out of it, we don't know what to think, unless he believes he can't get the democratic vote in Wake County, without pronouncing his first assertions false. And he has such an unmanageable appetite for "public plunder," that he has crawfished out of his former position, and is now dancing to the tune of any thing for "plunder." Some of our readers may think we are travelling out of our way to set "Old Roan" right. But we want the Whigs in the East to know how demagogueism is raging up West, and that they may not be deceived. Of all public men, we think that "Old Roan" is the most contemptible. He is even worse than Reid, for he sticks up to his Wilmot Proviso notions, and is willing to surrender the rights of the South, rather than "crawfish" out.

CONGRESS.—The Congressional proceedings evidence an interesting time coming. The action of the Northern Caucus implies an unusual degree of determination and energy, which must be felt in some way. Southern "ultraists," as they are called, are also said to be caucusing. The House has referred the long pending Iowa election case back to the people The most sensible thing that could have been done.

KEEP IT BEFORE THE PEOPLE.

That the Democrats of the 8th Congressional District of North Carolina have PLEDGED THEMSELVES NOT TO VOTE FOR DAVID S. REID.

KEEP IT BEFORE THE PEOPLE.—That David S. Reid is a WILMOT PROVISOIST, in spirit and in truth. For particulars, ☞ see House Journal, 2d session, 28th Congress, Feb. 3d, 1845, page 321 And 2d session, 29th Congress, page 198, Jan. 1847.

KEEP IT BEFORE THE PEOPLE.—That the Hon. A. Venable will not endorse the platform of the Democratic Convention that assembled in Raleigh in June last.

☞ Our friends going to the Rail Road meeting in Salisbury, will find excellent accommodations at the "Union Hotel" in Hillsboro'. The proprietor, Maj. Howerton, is a very attentive landlord, and knows how to "do things up right."

THE RALEIGH STANDARD.

The Standard of Saturday last comes to us a conglomerated mass of heterogeneous commingle ment of contrarieties. He tries to "back square out" of the charge that Mr. Reid is a Wilmot provisoist. And in trying to do this, shows a most unpardonable want of truth. We ask the Standard to look up the charges we prefer against Mr. Reid, and "say out" whether they are true or false? No dodging.

The Standard pretends to make a true report of Mr. Morehead's speech in the Convention. The quotations given by the Standard are FALSE, we were there and heard Mr. Morehead's speech; several other speeches were erroneously reported in that paper. "Poor Billy" must be hard run for matter to fill up his Semi-weekly.

"I should deem it alike unwise and inexpedient at this time to increase the debt of the State, until the present works shall be so far advanced as to leave no doubt as to their cost or utility, and then to be decided on by some future Legislature."—R. M. Saunders.

We do not question the propriety or impropriety of this position. But our readers will recollect the many assertions "Old Roan" made antagonistical to this. And our friends in NewBerne will remember, that Gen. S. promised his INFLUENCE—the influence of his party, and the prominent men in the West of both parties, to secure them a charter for a Rail Road to NewBerne, and the STATE TO TAKE TWO-THIRDS of the stock. All we have to say is, to request our readers to notice what estimate he places on $3 per day. What will Gulick say to that?

WOMEN.

It seems as if Nature connected our intelligence with their dignity, as we connect our happiness with their virtues This, therefore, is a law of eternal justice—man cannot degrade woman without himself falling into the degradation; he cannot raise her without becoming better. Let us cast our eyes over the globe, and observe the two great divisions of the human race, the east and the west. One half of the ancient world remains without progress, without thought, and under the load of a barbarous civilization; women there are slaves. The other half advances towards freedom, light and happiness; the women there are loved and honored. Never shrink from a woman of strong sense. If she becomes attached to you, it will be from seeing and valuing similar qualities in yourself. You may trust her, for she knows the value of your confidence. You may consult her, for she is able to advise, and does so at once with firmness of reason and the consideration of affection.—Her love will be lasting, for it will not have been slightly won; it will be strong and ardent, for weak minds are incapable of the loftier grades of passion. If you prefer attaching yourself to a woman of feeble understanding, it must be either from fearing to encounter a superior person, or from vanity of prefering that admiration which springs from ignorance to that which approaches to appreciation.

TATTLERS.—Like a bell that's rung for fire; like a ceaseless auction crier; like oft times, a graceless liar, mischief making tattlers go; stopping you with quaking fear, whispering as you lend an ear —"Mercy on us, did you hear? Betsy Bean has got a beau!"

BOSTON, June 29th.

It is stated here upon the best authority, that Prof. Webster has written a letter to the Governor and Council, confessing that he killed Dr. Parkman, but that it was not a murder, and praying that his sentence may commuted. The letter, though long, it is said, does not give the details of the fatal transaction. It will probably come up before the Council on next Tuesday.

NEW ORLEANS, June 27.

The cotton market since advices by the Cambria has been very dull. During three days, 2,000 bales sold each day—prices are lower grades, middling 11⅞.

HOT WEATHER.—On Tuesday last, the thermometer stood at 99.

For the Telegraph.

Mr. Editor—Not seeing in your last paper any account of the recent discovery of an extensive harbour on the coast of California, called by the discoverer (Lieut. Douglass Ottinger, U. S. R. Marine) "Humboldt Harbour," no doubt in honor of the great Traveller, &c., of that name, I have taken the liberty of bringing to the notice of your readers and yourself, the facts as related in the letter of Lieut O. to the Secretary of the Treasury, his chief

It appears that the gallant Lieutenant was on furlough, and having nothing to do, thought he would take a little innocent recreation in exploring the coast of California "from Bodega Bay to the anchorage of Cape St. George," in company with some other gentlemen like himself, fond of adventure. He embarked in a small schooner from San Francisco, called the Laura Virginia, with the purpose of making examinations of Trinity River and Bay. The result of this effort has been the discovery of a harbour, situated in latitude 40 deg. 48 min. having at its shallowed depth, 4 fathoms water on the bar, and 10 fathoms at the inside of the bar, "with safe anchorage for two or three hundred sail of ships." The extent of the Bay is from one to five miles in breadth, and sixteen miles in length.

He states that the "northern and southern parts of the quay are dry at low water," which might render a residence there unhealthy I presume, were it not for the long spell of dry weather so peculiarly the property of the Pacific coast. He also goes on to say, that the country bordering on this beautiful Bay, "has been pronounced by persons competent to judge, as possessing in the highest degree, all that is requisite for a flourishing agricultural district, as well as to furnish timber for all the Cities and Towns in California." Besides, it is "one of the most beautiful sections of country" he ever beheld. The woods "abound with elk, deer and small game, and the water with shell and other fish." Why, sir, this is a perfect Paradise! with plenty to eat and good water to drink; besides being only about forty miles from the rich gold mines on Trinity river, where you can get as much gold dust as you want for the digging. It is all a reasonable creature can desire; and we have no need to wage war against Cuba, when we have already all that is needed to please the eye or delight the fancy, to say nothing of the ocean of good eating and drinking.

Lieut Ottinger also discovered two other streams. The first, at its mouth or entrance, has three fathoms water on its bar; is navigable for vessels of fifty or one hundred tons; timber can be rafted out to large ships lying outside, and it lies in latitude 41 deg. 33 min. The smaller body of water is not navigable for vessels, but will do for rafts, and is laid down by him in latitude 41 deg. 19 min. For further particulars, I refer you to the "Republic" of the 22d inst.

Now, sir, you will perceive that the whole of these valuable discoveries lie north of 36 deg. 30 min., (the Missouri Compromise line) and consequently, if Congress should adopt that line in their settlement of the "Omnibus Bill" before Senate, why of course the South will be excluded from that portion of our Territory so graphically described by Lieut. O., and which, by his account, must be very desirable for Agriculturists. This then brings up another consideration in the settlement of our sectional prejudices, and may be the means of compelling the refractory Southern and Northern members to give their support to the "Compromise Bill," as it came from the hands of Mr. Clay I consider the amendment of Mr. Soule's as surplusage, for who can read the Clay Bill with half an eye, and is not obliged to see that the privilege is given to the States themselves to legislate whether or not slavery shall be allowed within their limits.

I take the ground that Congress has no power whatever to legislate on the subject of slavery, save to regulate the method of restoring a runaway slave to his owner. Having this for my text, (which cannot be denied with any particle of argument,) I hold that Mr. Polk, and all those who voted for the "Oregon Bill" have violated the Constitution. That all those who aided and abetted the passage of the "Missouri Compromise," did the same thing. Now, I do not charge ANY of these gentlemen with a wilful and malicious violation of the Constitution; but, I do say that their want of firmness on these occasions, has caused all the disorder that attended the annexation of Texas, and so on to the present time. By strictly construing the Constitution, dy sticking only to the power that is given, and not to that which is only imagined, all these sectional jealousies and hallucinations would have been avoided, and you would not see the country in the present deplorable state.

My motto is, first know you are right, then stick to it like "grim death to a dead nigger." In receding from our rights, we have only courted aggression. Each "step backward" on the part of the South, has been followed by one step forward on the side of the North. All that we have to do is to forward! march! until we recover our former ground, and stand at the bar of our country, not as suppliants, but as high-minded equals, who "know our rights, and dare maintain them."

If, sir, the Northern members would listen to the almost unanimous voice of their constituents, as revealed in their numerous mass meetings all over their section of the Union. If the South would also meet in primary assemblies, and instruct their servants that they have expended enough breath in talking to show their eloquence and learning, and that they must vote for that bill of Mr. Clay's which respects all shades of opinion on the dark subject of slavery, and which is the fairest Compromise that has yet been offered, and which I fancy will ever be offered; I say, sir, if the people all over the Union would take the matter in hand, and put a stop to all this agitation on the part of a few abolitionists, and five or six members of Congress from the North, as well as a few southern members of Congress, who I believe from their actions are co-operating with the Abolitionists to dissolve the Union, we would soon see quiet restored to this distracted country, and some legislation had, in relation to the Commercial and industrial interests.

It appears that the members of Congress think they are the masters, instead of the servants of their constituents. I used to think when a verdant youth, that the Representatives reflected the will of their constituents, but my eyes have been opened, and I find that the reverse is the fact. The Constituents have to follow their Congressmen, like a flock of sheep the old bell-wether.

Few of the members of Congress of any State will deserve on their return to their abused constituency, the welcome of "well done thou good and faithful servant," but among that few will be found Webster, Clay, Dickinson and Cass. May the prayers and good wishes of a grateful people ever be showered upon those true Patriots, who have so well deserved the affections of their fellow-citizens, whilst it may be so truthfully said of the large portion of their co-laborers, that they are "all jaw like a sheep's head." LANCASTER CITY,
LANCASTER COUNTY, PENN., May 1, 1850

Dear Sir—Wishing to extend my new mode of computing numbers, among business men generally, induces me to address a few lines to you on the subject.

First—by this Rule, a person having any knowledge of figures, can give the sum total of any column, as fast as the answer can be written. The sum total of a lengthy column of Dollars and Cents, is given by this Rule in a second of time. It matters not what length the column is, or what breadth, the sum total is given as fast as the figures can be written down. The process is not performed by adding the figures together, but by a Rule, in which a figure is chosen out of each column, and set down.

Second—by this Rule any number can be multiplied by any number, and the product given all in one line instantly. Illimitable sums in Division and Fractions, are performed with the like rapidity. Interest, at any per cent, and for any given time, is performed by this Rule in a second. Extension—such as so many yards, at a certain price per yard—is carried out instantly, whether fractions or whole numbers. In fact all arithmetical rules can be performed in the same manner. These Rules can be learned in half an hour, by any person having the printed Rules.

Any person enclosing Five Dollars to me, through the Lancaster Post Office, will receive a full set of these Rules, by return of mail. Or any person sending three subscribers, will receive a copy of these Rules, gratis.

Yours, truly,
PETER M. DESHONG.

Lost.

LOST, on the night of the 6th instant, on the cars from Weldon to Petersburg, a POCKET BOOK, containing a Draft drawn by (I think) W. B. Peters & Co., of New Orleans, on Patterson & Co., of Philadelphia in favor of W. L. Sledge; and endorsed by him, for Four Hundred Dollars, a County Court Order from Halifax county, N. Carolina, in favor of Wm. Z. Powell for $1,90 Several other papers, not particularly remembered, and some four hundred and seventy-two dollars, as well as I can remember, in money, of gold, and Virginia, and North Carolina notes. Among the former, was a sovereign and a half sovereign; and, among the latter, a Five dollar note of the Bank of North Carolina, late issue, signed by G. W. Mordecai, President.

A fair reward will be paid for the recovery of the Book and contents, and if finder has treated himself to a few dollars, we will not quarrel about it.

WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS,

Exchange Buildings, Wilmington, N. C.,

RESPECTFULLY announce to the Medical profession, Merchants and others, in want of goods in our line, that the unexpected encouragement which we have met in our "New Enterprise" of establishing in this place an exclusive Wholesale Drug Store, has determined them to make still further reduction in prices, thereby placing many articles below the New York quotations, as evidence in our possession will prove. Our stock is now complete, and is much larger than to be found elsewhere in this State, embracing the best collections of Drugs, Chemicals, &c.

We annex an abridged list of some of the leading articles, and will take pleasure in sending our priced circular, strictly confidential, to Physicians and others in the trade.

DUDLEY'S

Anti-Rheumatic OIL.

A certain and speedy Cure for Chronic Rheumatism, Spasms of the Muscles, Ligaments, and Back, and for Sprains, Bruises, and Contusions.

The history of this invaluable medicine is remarkable. It has risen into notice, and established a high and just reputation in the region of country where it has been tried, ALONE from the surprising and numerous cures it has effected. The Proprietor Dr Samuel Dudley, Hospital Surgeon, on the Island of Portsmouth, North Carolina, has used it with unfailing success, both in the Hospital, and in his private practice about twenty years During that period it has been attracting public attention, and gradually rising into general and high reputation in all that region of country, solely, by the surprising certainty of the cures it has uniformely effected. Until very recently, it has never been advertised, nor have any pains been taken to extend its celebrity Its high reputation therefore is permanent, because it is based upon surprising and UNFAILING experiments alone The Proprietor encouraged by its eminent success in cases of Chronic Rheumatism, and by the advice of his friends, and he will add actuated by a desire to extend as far as possible the benefits of its healing properties is now taking measures to make its wonderful properties more generally known All he asks is a fair trial. It is now offered to the afflicted in the Eastern portion of North Carolina. The proprietor is perfectly willing to put the result of its success or failure upon its success or failure in curing or failure to cure any case of Chronic Rheumatism, or other affection for which it is recommended

Certificates from highly respectable sources like the following, can be multiplied to almost any extent A few are appended.

The following has been politely furnished by that highly esteemed citizen Col. Joshua Tayloe of Beaufort county N. C. well know as a valuable member of our State Senate, and at present Collector of the Port of Ocreeoke, North Carolina:—

"At the request of Dr. Samuel Dudley of Portsmouth, North Carolina, I state that some years ago one of my sons had a severe and protracted attack of Rheumatism, and by using his "Anti-Rheumatic Oil" he was relieved

It gives me great pleasure to say, that besides this case, I have heard of others which convince me that this oil is very valuable in cases of Rheumatism.

JOSHUA TAYLOE.

Washington, N. C., 1848.

The High Sheriff of the County of Carteret, has placed the fellowing at the proprietors disposal—

This may certify, that I have been for many years afflicted with Rheumatism and recently had an attack in the neck and by the application of 'Dudley's Anti-Rheumatic Oil,' only three times, was in a few hours perfectly relieved.

GEORGE DILL.

Beaufort, N. C. Sept, 1848.

The following letter is from a respectable Druggist, I. Disosway, of Newbern, North Carolina.

Dr. S Dudley,

Dear Sir,—I have sold out almost all of the Anti-Rheumatic Oil sent me, and as I do not wish to get out of it, I should be glad if you would send me another supply. I can speak in the most decided term, in reference to the merits of the Oil. I have never known it to fail. It has been used by one of my the best results, by Mr Guion, late a member of the Legislature, and others and always with decided effect. I know of a person who has been unable to move a foot without assistance, who was cured in less than three days, and with using one bottle only. I can recommend it with confidence, and shall loose no opportunity of so doing. Yours, &c. I. DISOSWAY.

Every disease to which the human frame is subject, originates from impurities of the blood or derangement of digestive organs.

Dr. Gordon's Family Pills, being compounded exclusively of such ingredients as nature intended should operate on the impurities of the Human System. Strike at the root of the disease, removing all impurities from the body, opening the pores externally, separating all foreign and obnoxious particles from the chyle, so that the blood, of which it is the origin, must be thoroughly pure and necessarily securing a free and vigorous action to the Heart, Lungs, Liver and Stomach, thereby restoring health, by opening the pores, cleansing the veins and arteries, unimpeding all the natural veins and purifying the blood; they render the system not only thoroughly sound, but also impervious to disease, even when all other means have failed.

Within the last twelve months, more than one hundred cases of the most aggravated forms of Dyspepsia have been cured by the medicine, where rigid dieting, the Blue Pill, and almost every other means had been resorted to without any benefit, and when death stared its miserable victim fully in the face. If Dr. Gordon's PILLS were not adapted to the cure of any but this horrid malady, their uniform success in this disease alone would be sufficient to 'waft on to fame' the name of their inventor, as a benefactor of his species. This medicine never fails to cure the worst cases of piles in one week!

Mitchell's Eye Salve.

To the Public.

THE concurrent testimony of men of integrity and worth is the best evidence we can have of any fact of which we have no cognizance ourselves. The great advantages possessed by this article over all other, are—its CERTAINTY, SAFETY, CONVENIENCE and ECONOMY. All physicians admit that great danger is to be apprehended from drugging the eye when in an inflamed and unhealthy state. In the use of this salve this objection is entirely removed, as no harm can possibly result from its use; it being in all cases applied to the EXTERNAL portions of the eye, thereby avoiding all the inconvenience, pain and danger, which necessarily attend the introduction of any pungent article INTO the eye. Its activity in subduing inflamation is so great that but few cases require the use of more than one bottle to effect a perfect cure. For sale at this office.
